Mum left scarred after nightclub assault 'disgusted' by light sentence

ANGER THAT THUG WAS ONLY FINED FOR ATTACK

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

A FURIOUS mother who was attacked in a Harlow nightclub has slammed a court's decision to fine her assailant as "disgusting".

Mum-of-one Gemma Blissett, 34, and her sister Angie were injured when they were assaulted in December.

Last week Brian Eke, 46, was ordered to pay a total of £657 in fines and court costs when he appeared for sentence at Chelmsford Magistrates' Court. He had previously pleaded guilty to two charges of common assault.

"The sentence is an injustice," said Gemma, of Potter Street, Harlow. "I received permanent damage in the attack but it was listed as common assault when it should have been actual bodily harm."

Small

"I think the fact he was given the same small punishment for both assaults quite disgusting."

Gemma added: "I am not sure what happened as it was all so fast but I was attacked as I went to the SCARRED: Gemma Blissett now toilets. The police came and we called an ambulance and they ended up taking us to Princess Alexandra Hospital. That night we had no sleep."

Gemma suffered facial injuries in the attack and had to return to the hospital several times over a period of three weeks for stitches, scans and X-rays.

She said she had sustained permanent nerve damage as a result of the attack and while most of the physical injuries have now healed, she has been left with a visible scar.

The injuries suffered by Angie, 41, who also lives in Harlow, were less severe.

Gemma, who works as a senior service team member at Mercedes-Benz in Bishop's Stortford, said: "I had to take three weeks off work as I could not even think straight from the effect of the concussion."

Panic

"I have been getting panic attacks and Angie did not want to go out on her own. We are just worried."

"I now have an obvious scar on my head and if I go out it is hard to look nice. I can no longer feel the top of my head and there's nothing that can be done about that now."

"People always ask how I got the scar and I have to re-tell the story over and over."

Criticising the sentence, Gemma said: "He has been ordered to pay less than £700 and I think the punishment was light. He should have been given some sort of community service order too."

"Through going to hospital and completing the police paperwork I lost two days of my life that I am never getting back while he was able to enjoy a nice Christmas, going out whenever he wanted."

TV presenter Chris joins the search for killer tick

Wildlife expert visits fields where deadly parasite has been found

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

TELEVISION presenter and wildlife expert Chris Packham was in Harlow this week to join the search for ticks spreading a potentially lethal dog disease.

The Springwatch star fronted a BBC News broadcast yesterday (Wednesday) from fields near Todd Brook, off Third Avenue, to investigate how canine babesiosis became established there.

Four dogs have been treated for the killer disease after walking in or near the fields, prompting Animal and Plant Health Agency (APHA) and Public Health England (PHE) to visit the site on Friday.

A spokeswoman from APHA said: "The disease is not considered to be present in the UK but the dogs (with the disease) have not travelled outside of England. This raises the possibility they have become infected within the country."

A PHE spokesman added: "The tick concerned, Dermacentor reticulatus, is not a common tick in England and we are currently monitoring the distribution of this tick across England."

As part of the broadcast, Mr Packham interviewed tick expert Richard Wall, who is leading a national awareness campaign called the Big Tick Project.

Professor Wall, zoology lecturer at Bristol University, said: "We are here to find out more and raise awareness through the campaign."

Babesiosis attacks the blood cells of dogs causing lethargy, weakness, pale gums, red/brown urine and fever. If left untreated it can be fatal and Harlow vets have performed emergency blood transfusions to stop the disease. Dogs prescribed with anti-tick treatment by vets have not been affected.

The tick has only previously been found in Devon and Wales, but in those cases it was not carrying babesia.

Both APHA and PHE are keen to find out how the disease could have arrived in Harlow. Ticks found in the field are being examined by the agencies. Results could give a clue to the origins of the parasites and what action needs to be taken.

Concerns about the tick were first raised by Clive Swainsbury, practice partner at Forest Veterinary Centre, who have a surgery at Eastwick Lodge Farmhouse.

Mr Swainsbury, who was interviewed by Radio 5 Live presenter Nicky Campbell on the breakfast show yesterday, said he has seen an increase of dog owners worried about babesiosis entering the surgery.

Last week Harlow Council warned pet owners to not walk their dogs in the area where the ticks have been found while MP Robert Halfon has approached the Government about the issue.

SEARCH: Chris Packham and Professor Richard Wall collect ticks. Right, a close-up of a tick found in the field

What is Babesiosis?

- Babesiosis is a parasitic disease transmitted by ticks
- It causes the immune system to destroy its own blood cells
- It is very rare in humans but is quite common in mammals in some foreign countries
- Symptoms include fever, weight loss, fast breathing and lethargy

Boxing legends make sure it's a knockout night for sporting charity

FIGHT fans enjoyed an evening of knockout action in the company of former world heavyweight champion Frank Bruno and other boxing legends.

The charity night held at the Manor of Groves Hotel in High Wych raised £14,000 for the Presidents Sporting Club and Essex Disabled Sports Foundation.

Amateur boxers took to the ring for a series of bouts organised by Scott Glead from Bishop's Stortford Boxing Club and Sab Leo from Hoddesdon Boxing Club.

Trophies were presented by Bruno and fellow boxing legends John H Stracey, Jason Matthews, Charlie Magri, Dave 'Boy' Green, James Cook, Colin McMillan and Maurice Hope.

The evening also included an auction merchandise signed by Muhammad Ali, Brazilian football legend Pelé and Formula One world champion Lewis Hamilton among the lots. The highest-selling items were a pair of boots worn by Bruno and a signed WBC belt which made £2,000.

The Presidents Sporting Club has raised more than £2m to provide sporting facilities and opportunities for disabled children across the region.

Hundreds in charity bike ride for Marcel

Friends organise gathering in memory of tragic 16-year-old

William Mata

william.mata@hertsexnews.co.uk

HUNDREDS of young people attended a mass bike ride to remember teenager Marcel Bellairs-Honiss, who passed away at the age of 16.

The 'In Loving Memory of Marcel's Ride Out', which was held on Saturday, also included a football game, balloon release and fireworks all organised by his friends Jess White and Frankie Heath.

Jess, 15, from Bishopsfield, Harlow, said: "Marcel was my best friend growing up through Holy Cross Primary School and we went to Passmore Academy together - he was the year above me.

Character

"He always had a smile and was so full of character. Me and Marcel were speaking the day before he died.

"I didn't expect the gathering to be so massive. It was an amazing day. All of his family turned up and they mingled with everyone.

"His dad could not stop hugging us. He has been really strong and has been there for his kids. He has helped us get through it."

Marcel was a talented footballer and was part of the academy team of Harlow Town Football Club.

The Hawks held a minute of applause in his honour before their game against Brightlingsea Regent on Saturday.

RIDE-OUT: Organisers Frankie Heath left and Jess White

Jess added: "I have not been able to go into school until today (Wednesday). It was so hard to deal with it. It shocked everyone. We can't get over this.

"Young people have a bad name in Harlow but I think what we did on Saturday shows that we can do some good too. This has united us as a community."

An estimated 400 people took part in and watched the ride-out which began at Bush Fair and toured around the town before finishing at Barn Mead. Participants rode a variety of motorbikes and pedal cycles.

A collection has been started for Marcel's family with £620 raised so far to help cover the cost of a funeral.

Outside the family home, friends laid flowers, candles and Arsenal flags, Marcel's favourite football team.

Frankie, 16, from Bush Fair, Harlow, added: "I grew up with Marcel.

"He was really funny. He was always up for doing things, whether that was riding motorbikes, going out of playing football. We were always going out or generally mucking about.

"He was well known to a lot of people. Marcel's father is hoping to start a youth centre and hold a yearly event in his memory."

The ride out was attended by Vic Goddard, Principal of Passmore Academy, who added: "When I heard of the death of Marcel it was impossible to believe.

"Our enduring memory of him will be his smile; he flashed it regularly and could charm anyone with it.

"I had the pleasure of spending a week with Marcel on a residential trip last year, prior to his final exams starting, and he was great company."

MP backs Government decision to cut disability benefit

ROBERT Halfon has backed the Government's decision to cut a disability benefit.

The Harlow MP supported the changes to Employment Support Allowance which will affect new claimants after April 2017 who will receive £30 a week less.

Mr Halfon, the Conservative Party deputy chairman, said: "I am proud the Government is spending £50 billion a year to support disabled people.

"That is the second highest in the world and something I strongly support. There will be no losses for current claimants. The ESA changes only affect new claimants after April 2017."

He set out 10 points why he voted for the changes to be made. He supported new claimants placed in the Work-related Activity Group receiving the same benefits as those receiving Job Seekers Allowance.

Mr Halfon also welcomed the more personalised support for the disabled through the new Universal Credit scheme, while he backed a £43m three year investment into mental health services.

He added: "The purpose of the changes is to ensure those with health conditions and disabilities who are able to work, get the best chance to do so, but that those who are most vulnerable get the support they need."

We don't need to fear Brexit

SIR In his statement published in the Star on February 25, Robert Halfon says that his heart tells him we should leave the EU (Star, March 3). Unfortunately, he is governed by his fear of doing so.

He and our current political leaders have experience only of operating under the umbrella of the EU so of course to many of them change is a bit scary.

Luckily some are made of sterner stuff and will vote to leave. The stay campaign is based solely on trying to scare the rest of us who know we must operate outside the EU to remain.

According to the stayers, jobs may suffer, the pound may crash, and, according to Guy Mitchinson in his letter of March 3, the NHS will collapse.

All 'ifs' and 'maybes' designed to scare but equally best dealt with, if the need arises, if we control our own political destiny.

We are part of Europe geographically and will always be so. However, there has been such a drastic change in our relationship with the Common Market which we joined after the 1975 referendum that we must now regain full control of our ability to govern ourselves.

We import more goods from the EU than we export to them and they will not want to change this. We will still get, for example, Spanish strawberries and German cars. We will still employ doctors and nurses from around the world if the need is there.

We will not lose our voice in the world if we leave the EU. We are a leading part of the United Nations, of NATO and, uniquely for a European country, a member of the Commonwealth.

We should look upon leaving the EU as an opportunity and not something to be feared.

Philip Powell
Hare Street

Reasons why it's time to go

SIR So our MP is in favour of remaining in the EU. I wonder if this political conviction or political expediency.

I would ask Mr Halfon to explain to the electorate why, if he is so convinced of his argument, David Cameron is unwilling to make available all relevant information to ministers who are in favour of leaving. It begs the question, what is he hiding?

Could it be, perhaps, that the EU is secretly negotiating the Transatlantic Trade and Investment Partnership which will have far-reaching and detrimental effects on trade, food production, workers rights, the environment and our National Health Service, which will be forcibly privatised.

And what of the migrant crisis? Nothing Cameron has negotiated will prevent the millions that Angela Merkel has allowed into Germany ending up here once they have been given EU citizenship.

Every friend I speak to in Germany says the only reason the other countries of the EU want us to remain is because we are the second highest net financial contributor to the EU coffers and Germany in particular would find it difficult to make up the shortfall if we leave.

The EU economic model, although perhaps good in principle, cannot work when the economies of the member countries are so disparate which is the reason the Eurozone is in such crisis. Mark my words, if we remain we will eventually be forced into the Eurozone.

And bear in mind, any concessions that Cameron has supposedly negotiated can (and almost certainly will) be struck down by the European Supreme Court whose rulings override British sovereignty.

And what of our security? Given the area in the world the majority of the migrants come from, there must by definition be among them a considerable number of sleeper jihadists and we will not be able to stop them coming to Britain.

Are you sure you want to remain, Mr Halfon?

Barry Plumridge

What became of the dream?

SIR When my parents first moved to Harlow, part of the drive to get people to move here included the statement it was "a new town specially for young people and families with young children". What has happened to that ideal?

People with young families can't walk or push pushchairs along our pavements anymore due to cars and far too many vans being parked on pavements.

The Square, a very popular and well-used music venue, has been shut down.

More and more houses are being built but what about extra GP surgeries or schools? Now, we are being told that four children's centres are to be shut.

Robert Halfon wants to start doing things that he was elected to do because, at the moment, that statement that Harlow is for young people is going against the trades description act.

Janet Barr
Rivermill, Harlow

No reason for foyer closure

SIR In last week's Star there were reports on two issues, one concerning a ravaged shrub and the other the plight of those young people who are being being evicted from Occasio House.

Last Friday the Daily Mail reported on one of these stories. It was, of course, the story about the bush.

From what I have read the young people living at Occasio House are those who have not had the best of starts in life, yet, by their own efforts, and support from the staff there they have gained some self reliance and self respect.

I would guess that as they are responsible for their own cooking and cleaning, and in general look after each other, they have become more confident and more socially aware. Nevertheless support and housing will still be needed.

There appears to be no particular reason for closing this facility. If it is anything to do with the regeneration of the area, then I would have thought the council would not be able to wash its hands of the matter.

John Drewett
Fir Park, Harlow

Park-and-ride is a solution

SIR I totally agree with a letter in last week's Star from J.M. Gillespie about parking problems at Princess Alexandra Hospital.

I am currently taking a disabled lady, who has to use a wheelchair, to the hospital quite often. I have to drive into the drop-off area, get the wheelchair out and then leave her at reception while I try and park.

It's a nightmare and I much prefer taking her to either St Margaret's Hospital in Epping or Herts and Essex Hospital at Bishop's Stortford.

In Harlow we have lots of areas where a park-and-ride could be set up for a nominal charge. This way the hospital won't be blocked with cars trying to park in a very small area.

Barry Ford
address supplied

More cash for road repairs

SIR More than 150 years ago the Victorians came up with the first bicycle. It was called the boneshaker, partly as it had no suspension but mainly because the roads were so bad.

Essex County Council now want cyclists and car drivers to relive the experience of these cycling pioneers. Just drive on many of our estate road and be taken back in time.

Despite continual complaints the county council refuses to properly maintain Harlow's estate roads. They are in complete denial about how bad they really are, claiming the best roads in the country at council meeting when in reality many roads are showing the concrete base laid down by the Harlow Development Corporation more than 70 years ago. Talk about back to the future.

Surely the Conservative administration at County Hall could do better. It is in the process of raising council tax by four per cent, twice as much as the police or fire authority. These increases mean the average household will be paying nearly £50 a year more as compared to Harlow Council's increase of about £2 a year.

With so much more money, surely they could start repairing the estate roads of Harlow.

Cllr Mike Danvers (Labour)
Tunmeade, Harlow

We must train more nurses

SIR Working in any environment experiencing staff shortages can be incredibly challenging and have potentially serious consequences. This is particularly true of nursing.

New figures obtained through Freedom of Information requests suggest there were more than 23,400 nursing vacancies in the NHS in England, Wales and Northern Ireland as of December 1 last year. This is the equivalent to nine per cent of the workforce.

Nursing posts are often the first target when savings need to be made, leading the NHS to find itself dangerously short and having to spend more on agency staff and recruitment from other countries.

The UK is not training enough nurses to meet our needs. Changes to student funding are yet another threat to future staff numbers.

The consequences are felt by nursing staff and patients alike – nurses work under relentless pressure and patients face delays and unmet needs.

Tackling the problem is made no easier because vacancies are no longer collected, held or published centrally so we could effectively assess workforce gaps nationally. Freedom of Information allows some insight but is by no means perfect.

Union in fight to save jobs at BMAT schools

Cuts place 140 staff at risk of redundancy

William Mata

william.mata@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A TRADE union believes job cuts at Burnt Mill Academy Trust will "put the quality of children's education at risk".

UNISON Eastern has launched a petition to save jobs under threat at BMAT following the news that it was consulting on plans to axe 140 staff across its six schools.

Emma Aboubaker, area organiser for UNISON Eastern, said: "We are dismayed and concerned at the huge cuts planned."

"[Some] 140 key support staff, including teaching assistants, administrators, learning mentors, site managers, cleaners and midday assistants are in danger of losing their jobs."

"UNISON believes any cuts will put the quality of children's education at risk as well as have a big impact on the local community and economy."

The cost-cutting plans will affect all BMAT schools which include Burnt Mill Academy in First Avenue, Harlow, and Forest Hall in Stansted as well as Little Parndon Primary School, Cooks Spinney Academy, Freshwaters Academy, and Roydon Primary School.

BMAT is also pressing ahead with an application to launch a new sixth-form and secondary school on the site of the former

CONCERNED: Regional UNISON official Reg Nicholls meets Harlow councillor Waida Forman at Burnt Mill Academy to discuss the plans

Passmores School site in Tending Road.

The trust has not confirmed exactly when the axe would fall but insisted high quality teaching was a priority.

The petition had already been signed by 341 people by the time the Star went to press, a response which which UNISON hopes will force BMAT to reconsider their decision.

Ms Aboubaker said negotiations were continuing with BMAT chief executive Helena Mills and support for the petition would show "these jobs matter".

Murray Sackwild, general secretary of the Harlow and Epping branch of the National Union of Teachers, added: "We completely support UNISON and its efforts to protect members at BMAT. It is entirely reprehensible that cuts to the education budget, fully supported by Harlow MP Robert Halfon, have pushed BMAT into a financial corner."

"We strongly urge BMAT to look again and do all it can to avoid highly valued teaching assistant and admin staff, most of them living in Harlow, being made redundant."

A BMAT spokesman said: "We are in consultation with staff and are in negotiations with unions to find ways to reduce any redundancies."

More time to support neighbourhood plan

VILLAGERS have been given more time to show their support for the creation of a Neighbourhood Plan covering North Weald Bassett.

Parish council chairman Cyril Hawkins said it was hoping to build on the enthusiasm within the community for a plan, with more than 70 residents indicating they wanted to be involved.

"We are confident that those who are already supporting the initiative and the renewed communications efforts we have planned will help us to spread the word," he added.

A Neighbourhood Plan gives residents the chance to develop a vision for the neighbourhood and help shape the development and growth of the area.

The deadline for anyone wanting to get involved has now been extended until April 30. To sign up email ourplan@northweald-pc.gov.uk or call (01992) 523825.

HOT SHOTS: Robbie Johnson (middle row, centre) with the friends who took part in the 12-hour darts marathon

Darts players hit the bullseye to raise funds for seriously ill pal

DETERMINED darts players stepped up to the oche for a marathon match which raised almost £3,000 for a friend who is recovering from a serious illness.

Robbie Johnson has been in and out of hospital since December but made an appearance at Saturday's 12-hour fundraiser at Paringdon Road Sports and Social Club to thank the 14 players taking part.

Organiser Frankie Byrne, 45, of The Dashes, Harlow, said: "It was a very long and tiring day. Everybody threw 715 darts each and the winner, Dave Galloway, scored more than 17,000 points.

"We played in groups of seven for an hour each and then swapped. People were coming up and donating money throughout the game."

Mr Johnson was admitted to hospital with pneumonia and later contracted swine flu before spending three weeks in a coma as doctors battled to save his life.

He is now recovering at home in Stanstead Abbots where he lives with his wife Lisa.

Mr Byrne added: "Robbie came along and gave a little speech. He said he did not know he had so many friends and was happy that so much money was raised.

"He believes the strength of his family and friends pulled him through this. He can choose to do what he likes with the money."

The fundraiser also included an auction and a raffle with prizes donated by Harlow Playhouse and Saracens Rugby Club. Mr Byrne also thanked Paringdon Sports Club for the free use of the venue.

Man 'heard voices' before stabbing his friend in the neck

Jury told victim was lucky to survive attack with kitchen knife

Court Reporter

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

A MAN who stabbed his flatmate in the neck with a kitchen knife while he was asleep later told police he suffered from paranoid schizophrenia and did it because he heard voices.

A jury at Chelmsford Crown Court was told the victim, who was friend of the defendant, was lucky to survive the attack two years ago.

The knife blade cut an artery and it took doctors half-an-hour to stem the flow of blood, after which he underwent emergency surgery.

Wounding

The accused - Michael McFarlane, 60, of Halling Hill, Harlow - pleads guilty to unlawfully and maliciously wounding Graham Botfield, 53, but denies attempted murder and inflicting grievous bodily harm with intent.

Opening the case for the prosecution, Andrew Jackson, said the central issue in the case was whether or not the defendant was able to form the intention to kill Mr Botfield or cause serious bodily harm.

Outlining the chain of events, Mr Jackson said: "Shortly before 4.30am on May 19, 2014, the defendant attempted to murder his good friend in the flat they both shared, stabbing him with a kitchen knife to his neck and cutting an important artery.

"Miraculously, he survived the attack. He was able to raise the alarm with a neighbour and McFarlane was found later in Harlow and arrested."

Mr Jackson said there was no dispute McFarlane was responsible for the injuries sustained by Mr Botfield as he admitted it to police and in court.

"They shared the flat for some time and with others as well. They were friends, there were ups and downs and both men frequently drank large amounts of alcohol.

"They slept on adjoining sofas, they didn't use beds. Both men had gone to sleep on the night of May 18; the defendant later told police he hadn't been drinking and was, in fact, sober.

"While Mr Botfield was asleep he was stabbed in the neck by the defendant. Not surprisingly, it woke him up and a laceration on his left thumb suggested he tried to defend himself from further attack."

Mr Jackson said that after the attack McFarlane placed the knife in the kitchen sink, changed his clothes and left the flat.

Transfusion

"It took doctors and nurses half an hour to stop the blood flow," said Mr Jackson. "He [Mr Botfield] had a blood transfusion and operation and mercifully he survived that attack."

McFarlane was arrested an hour or so after leaving the flat. He told police that after waking up in a state of confusion he heard voices, got the knife and stabbed Mr Botfield in the neck.

Mr Jackson told the jury: "He told police: 'I think I've got myself in a bit of trouble in doing what I've done. Attempted murder isn't going to go down well, I've got to face the consequences.'"

■ The trial continues.

Easter Recycling in Harlow

Don't forget to recycle your Easter egg cardboard boxes and cards using your wheelie bin, blue boxes or big blue bin if you live in a flat.

At home you can also recycle cans, bottles and jars, paper and cardboard, foil, empty aerosols and plastics ♻️ (mainly plastic bottles).

Food waste can be recycled via your green caddy each week or in your communal food waste bin if you live in a flat block which participates in food waste collections.

You can use compostable liners carrying this logo, which are available from most supermarkets, in your caddy or you can use newspaper. Please do not use ordinary plastic bags or put any food packaging in there as we will not empty your caddy.

Teenager quizzed by murder cops after fatal attack

Stabbing suspect released on police bail

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertssexnews.co.uk

A TEENAGER arrested by police investigating the fatal stabbing of a man in Harlow 12 days ago has been released on police bail.

The teenager from north London was arrested in Edmonton on Friday evening.

The suspect was released on bail pending further enquiries until Tuesday, May 17.

The Kent and Essex Serious Crime Directorate launched a murder investigation last weekend after the 48-year-old victim, Hassan Abdi Mohamed, was found collapsed close to Holly Field at 10.45am on Saturday, March 5.

Stabbed

Mr Mohamed, who lived in Harlow, was found on a pathway leading from Southern Way to Pyenest Road. He had been stabbed and died in hospital from his injuries.

His partner, who this week appealed for the public's help in providing information to police, described him as a loving father to their "two gorgeous children who adored him".

LOVING FATHER: Hassan Abdi Mohamed and the attack scene

Police searching for a large knife which they believe was used to kill Mr Mohamed issued an appeal on Monday in which they urged residents to check their bins, sheds and gardens.

They also repeated their appeal for information about the attack.

Anyone who can help is asked to call the Harlow Major Incident Team on the non-emergency 101 number or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111. They are offering a reward of up to £1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the killer.

Dementia support at cafe

PEOPLE with dementia and their carers are invited to socialise and receive support at a Memory Café.

Harlow Alzheimer's Society hold the relaxed and informal sessions as a platform to give face-to-face support.

Marion Howell, services manager of Harlow Alzheimer's Society, said: "Memory Cafés can really help improve people's quality of life."

"They give people the opportunity to socialise with others in a similar situation and receive vital support."

"They are also a great source of information and guidance which can help people to live well."

There are more than 1,000 people living with dementia in Harlow.

Apart from bank holidays the free café runs every Monday at Moot House in The Stow from 10am to midday, with refreshments available.

The group invites guest speakers including health and social care professionals and representatives from the local community to talk about topics and services relevant to them.

For more information, call the society on (01279) 418331.

Rock School park concert

HARLOW Rock School has announced plans for an afternoon of music and events at the bandstand in the Town Park.

The free Rock the Park event on Bank Holiday Monday (May 30) will see the young musicians take to the stage to perform.

Music will begin at midday and there will also be charity stalls, a bar and face painting for families to enjoy.

A collection will be held to support the work of the Jack Petchey Foundation whose support has made the event possible.

CHARITY: With this week's relaunch of St Clare Hospice's biggest fundraising event Hospice hoping to light up the night with the return of the Midnight Walk

THE biggest and most popular fundraising event in the St Clare Hospice calendar is returning to Harlow this summer after a year's break.

Organisers of the neon-themed Midnight Walk are planning to light up the night by encouraging hundreds of people to join the event which will be taking place on Saturday, July 2.

Thousands of walkers have taken part since the walk was first held back in 2008 and in the process raised hundreds of thousands of pounds for the charity.

But last year it was decided the time was right to take a break in order to focus on other fundraising activities.

Now the walk is back and at Monday's launch event in the Water Gardens the neon-clad St Clare team were joined by sponsors Barnes and Partners, the Harlow Star and Heart Radio.

Also present were mascots Clare Bear and Barnsey, who did their bit to encourage shoppers to sign up.

It is hoped more than 600 people will sign up to walk in memory of loved ones and help to raise the target total of £60,000, a sum which will be enough to fund the hospice's inpatient unit for two weeks.

Walkers have a choice of a 5k or 10k route routes, making it suitable for all abilities.

And to make sure it is truly a midnight affair the walk will start at 11pm so that the majority of participants will still be en route when the clock strikes 12.

As in previous years Heart Radio DJs will be providing the party entertainment while walkers limber up for the start.

"Dust off your tutus, break out the fairy wings and get your glow sticks at the ready because the Midnight Walk is back with a bang for 2016," said a hospice spokeswoman.

They made wedding ...

THIS year's Midnight Walk will be extra special for three people who during the past 12 months have experienced the care and support provided by St Clare Hospice to patients with terminal and life-limiting illnesses. Sue Barclay and her daughters, Emma, 31, and Sophie, 25 – who all live in Harlow – will be walking in memory of their husband and father, Steve, who passed away at the hospice on New Year's Day at the age of 63.

Gemma Gardner

gemma.gardner@hertsexnews.co.uk

FOR many women, walking down the aisle on their wedding day hand in hand with their father is something they have always dreamed of.

But for Sophie Barclay, 25, it was a dream she feared might never come true after her father Steve was diagnosed with an inoperable brain tumour.

Sophie and her fiancé Grant Betts were engaged for three years before Steve became unwell and booked their wedding for October as soon as they heard the news.

But when her dad's condition suddenly deteriorated in October 2015, Sophie, unable to imagine getting married without her dad by her side, brought the wedding forward and set a date just six weeks away.

Steve was admitted to St Clare Hospice a week before the big day and there was only one thing on his mind.

"I'm going to my daughter's wedding," he told everyone who asked, and the staff at St Clare were determined his dream would become a reality.

Staff found a specially designed wheelchair to allow Steve to be at Sophie's side when she walked down the aisle.

Volunteered

Zoe Almond, a nursing assistant on the Inpatient Unit at St Clare, volunteered to accompany Steve to the wedding on her day off.

A member of the Hospice at Home team even blow-dried Sophie's mum's hair on the day of the wedding to make sure the mother of the bride looked beautiful.

For Sophie it was all worth it to see her dad arrive on the morning of the wedding.

"Zoe turned up with dad and as soon as I saw him there I thought my day is already perfect just because he was there. I just couldn't imagine him not being there," said Sophie.

Sophie and Grant were married at Gaynes Park in Epping on Monday, November 23 surrounded by close friends and family. As Sue and Steve walked Sophie down the aisle there wasn't a dry eye in the house.

Sophie said: "Without St Clare we wouldn't have been able to do this, they made it possible for dad to be at my wedding. We can't thank them enough."

Sadly, Steve passed away at the hospice on New Year's Day. He was 63.

■ Sophie's mother Sue and her sister Emma, 31, will be taking part in the Midnight Walk in July in memory of Steve.

MP joins pupils for breakfast

HARLOW: Early eaters at a primary school welcomed special guest Robert Halfon to their breakfast club.

The Harlow MP visited Harlowbury Primary School, in Watlington Road, to see how pupils started their day and was impressed with the food on offer.

He said: "It's been wonderful to be at the amazing Harlowbury Primary School to see the brilliant breakfast club in action."

"A special thank you to all the staff and learning support workers who support the breakfast club."

Breakfast clubs are valued as a learning tool by primary school staff with many adopting the model.

A YouGov poll found that 75 per cent of teachers consider hunger and thirst to be reasons why children can be disruptive in class.

Charity group

HARLOW: Charitable students from a secondary school have joined together to decide how they can best fundraise for good causes.

Burnt Mill Academy, in First Avenue, has launched the Be More charity committee to represent views of all year groups.

It is in charge of organising cake sales, non-uniform days and other fundraising events.

Teacher Amy Mills said: "This is about developing our children as people."

"They will win gold, silver and bronze awards for their efforts."

Feast for the eyes: Images on display in dining hall

New building is the perfect place to showcase talent behind lens

William Mata

STUDENTS and teachers with an eye for a picture exhibited their work in a school's gallery.

The new dining hall of Stewards Academy, in Parnall Road, Harlow, is now lined with the winning entries of a photographic competition.

Art and photography teacher Stewart Li said: "A display of talent from Stewards pupils and staff has brought vivid colour and imagination to the dining hall."

"I hope the work inspires everyone to pick up a camera and produce the next crop of outstanding photography."

Opening

The exhibition coincided with official opening of the hall which provides an ideal setting to hang paintings and photographs.

Mr Li launched the competition in October with the themes 'trees in nature' and 'healthy foods'.

The school wanted to create a calm and relaxed area where students could dine and also provide inspiration for future artists and photographers.

The huge variety of work submitted ranged from landscapes of Canada, shots of Harlow landmarks to snaps of everyday items in a new light.

Teachers and students entered 150 photographs which were judged by headteacher Rhonda Murthar, who decided which ones were to be exhibited.

Mia Christie, a Year 7 student who was one of the winners, said: "I am extremely proud to see my work at school. It is lovely to see the dining hall full of colour."

Fellow winner and Year 7 student Hannah Osborne added: "The new photographs have brought the dining hall to life and brightened it up. It makes me proud to see my work in school."

ADVERTISING FEATURE

ALBERT English Funeral Directors based at The Stow in Harlow is about to celebrate its first year in business.

Albert English is a family business owned and run by local family, John and Sally Frangiamore. Although they may appear to be new to the area they are, in fact, not novices in the funeral industry at all.

John and Sally have been the successful, reputable owners of two other independent funeral directors, based in Cheshunt and Enfield, for many years. This allows them to use their wealth of experience and expertise to invest into the Harlow area and the local families that may need their help over the months and years to come.

In May 2015 they decided to open in Harlow as there appeared to be a gap in the market for a small independent business.

Being an 'independent' means they are able to offer funerals without any of the fuss, pressure or expense that can sometimes come with the more traditional funeral.

The newly-refurbished premises have a clean, modern feel and the benefit of off-street parking right outside. Albert English Funeral Directors' office was previously a funeral directors and the proud new company can be seen from the main road alongside The Stow in Harlow, right next to the new Aldi superstore.

Cheshunt Funeral Directors and Enfield Funeral Directors are both successful enterprises owned by the family. However, all three businesses run independently of each other.

There is no personnel crossover and members of staff work for only one branch, meaning there is not a large bank of staff that alternates between branches.

Continuity is very important to John: "The person you see when you first enter will be the person you always see." Each business has its own well-established individual style, serving the local area and proud to play a part in the surrounding local community.

John Frangiamore has been working in the funeral industry for nearly 30 years. He began as a trainee, working with his father-in-law at Abbott and English in Waltham Abbey. This is where John began to learn the trade first hand, through work experience on site and ultimately working his way up to become a partner.

When Abbott and English was sold, John and his wife Sally decided to set up their own independent business. When it came to naming their latest venture, John decided to use the 'English' part of the name from Abbott and English, as a mark of respect in memory of his now late father-in-law.

Albert English Funeral Directors is approaching its one-year anniversary and this provides time for reflection for John and his team, who are pleased with the way business has been so far.

Most clients who have used the team's services have been recommended through word of mouth and the staff pride themselves on such recommendations.

John says: "We believe we are only as good as our last funeral".

At Albert English, the staff strive to offer a service that will excel their client's expectations. From the moment you make that first call, their aim is to take control, to 'undertake' as undertakers do.

To deal with all of the elements that provide a stress-free funeral - from talking to the hospital, to booking the church, crematorium and organising any cars and flowers. Every detail is dealt with, however big, however small.

To arrange a funeral can be a daunting experience, which is why, as Karen says: "We take great pride in ensuring that the families are listened to and looked after during this time in their lives."

Albert English provides a 24-hour service and the staff that liaise with the family also personally take care of their loved ones that have parted, on site, and with great respect and care, before the funeral. "We don't just take care of the deceased; we take care of the whole family, which is why our door is always open," Karen added.

After a death, making the necessary arrangements can seem overwhelming and confusing. The staff at Albert English take the time to listen to their clients wants and needs, to ensure the funeral service provided is as individual as the person being laid to rest. It is important that the final journey of a loved one is a personal, dignified and sensitive occasion.

A funeral can be as simple or as elaborate as the family wish. Every funeral is different and there is no such thing as normal as the options are endless. For example, coffins can range from a standard coffin to an expensive American cherrywood casket, or even a Star Trek-themed coffin.

Families may decide to have a traditional funeral with a horse-drawn carriage, or have a single white dove released, which symbolises the peaceful release of the spirit. A funeral does not have to be a sullen occasion and some choose to celebrate life rather than grieve a death.

One of the hardest things a mourning family has to cope with is the unknown, not knowing the final wishes of a loved one.

John says: "As funeral directors, we find this situation one of the most difficult things to deal with. We can organise almost anything for your family and your loved one, but it has to start with you."

Conversations about death are not easy, especially with someone you love and care for; however knowledge is a powerful tool and being armed with the right answers during your grief can bring great comfort during such a difficult time.

Albert English Funeral Directors also provides the opportunity to make a funeral plan ahead of time, so when your time does come, your family is relieved of the burden of deciding your wishes as you will have already decided, together with the cost, of what you would like.

After reading this, if you do nothing else, have that conversation with your family and loved ones.

However difficult or awkward, the staff at Albert English cannot stress enough how important it is to talk about the final event in your life - your funeral.

Lynette Wood and Karen Young run the office and have 25 years' experience between them. As Lynette says: "Planning a funeral can be one of the hardest things a family member has to do, so if we can make that experience as easy and stress-free as possible, then we consider that a job worth doing and worth doing well."

Tributes to popular GP and rugby club stalwart

TRIBUTES have been paid to popular Harlow doctor Cliff Bishop who has died at the age of 67 following a short illness.

Dr Bishop was born in Cardiff in 1949 and trained as a doctor along with his twin brother Clive at St Mary's Hospital in Paddington, London.

He then moved to Harlow, before leaving for High Wych and eventually settling in Sawbridgeworth.

As a huge rugby fan, Dr Bishop joined Harlow Rugby Club in 1971 where he played for many seasons as a flanker.

He coached the colts at Ram Gorse and served as club chairman from 1993 to 1998.

When club members were told of his death on Saturday, tributes poured in via a website set up in his memory.

Harlow Rugby Club president Alan Price said: "Cliff was a big part of the club and did so much as a player, coach, chairman and doctor."

"He was a very popular figure within the community as well, and I am not sure how he managed to fit everything in."

Former first team captain, Paul Eynon, added: "There were a number of times that he stitched me up, including after my debut game for the first team."

"He was a friend of the family and it is tragic that he has been taken so soon. He will be sorely missed."

"Cliff was such a nice guy, always with a smile on his face and was involved so much within our club and really helped starting to move us forward."

After finishing his rugby career he became a marathon runner and a very keen cyclist, joining Crescent Wheelers Cycling Club, and riding from Land's End to John O' Groats in seven days.

Dr Bishop was also well known to staffs and patients at Keats House, where he practiced for more than 30 years.

He is survived by his wife Sylvia and daughters Catherine, Carol and Dawn.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday, March 29 at Parndon Wood Crematorium.

A CHARITY which supports parents with young children during challenging times says its Family Group sessions are providing valuable bonding time.

Home-Start Harlow holds the weekly sessions at the Tree House Children's Centre in Parnall Road.

The toddlers are kept entertained while mums, dads and carers the chance to meet and discuss various issues they may be facing and share solutions while their children play.

"It's a great way to build relationships with like-minded people," said a spokeswoman for the charity.

"While your circumstances may seem to be unique, you may find that within a Family Group you have an opportunity to share ideas and learn from others."

The group meets on Wednesday mornings from 9-11.30am and there is a weekly contribution of £1.50 per family.

Staff organise a range of entertaining activities which encourage children to learn and engage with other youngsters and also provide a healthy snack.

"We are very grateful to The Tree House Children's Centre for providing a room which allows us to continue running on a shoestring budget," said the spokeswoman.

For more information about the Family Group sessions call Donna or Claire on (01279) 451669.

Weekend service in line for award

THE weekend GP service for NHS patients in West Essex has been shortlisted for a national award.

The service was launched in October as a pilot project run by two GP companies - Stellar Healthcare and Uttlesford Health - with 12 months of funding from the Prime Minister's Access Fund.

It allows patients to see a GP, healthcare assistant or nurse for pre-booked routine appointments, health checks and treatments on Saturdays and Sundays at various health centres across the district, including the Hamilton Practice at Keats House in Harlow.

In most cases appointments are made through patients own GP surgeries.

The service has been nominated for an award in the Best Initiative in Primary Care category of the Friends and Family Test awards.

Plans to convert offices into flats

EIGHT floors of office space at the Terminus House tower block in Harlow town centre could be converted to residential use.

The owners of the building in Terminus Street are seeking the go-ahead to create 54 two-bedroom flats and 36 one-bed flats, providing accommodation for up to 288 people.

In addition 14 cycle spaces will also be provided.

A prior notification application for change of use from office space to residential use has been submitted to Harlow Council.

Back to BASICS

If you want to start improving your home this spring, ensure you get the DIY basics right because they're the basis for everything else

Measure for measure

1. Accurate measuring is vital for all sorts of DIY tasks, but it's surprisingly easy to get wrong. If you can, get someone to help you measure or check your measurements, especially if you're measuring a large area or can't afford to make a mistake. Digital measurers can't be used to measure everything, but they make a lot of measuring quick and easy. With a digital measurer, you simply point the laser dot where you want to measure (ensuring you know which end of the measurer the reading is being taken from) and press the button to 'fix' the reading, which is extremely accurate.

As a rule

2. A metal ruler is a must for DIY because it's sturdy and rigid and you can't score into it accidentally with a craft knife. The main problem with metal rulers is that they can slip on smooth surfaces, so make sure you spread your fingers out along the length of the ruler to hold it down. Go for a ruler that's calibrated right up to the end, as this makes measuring and marking much easier.

Mark your mark

3. Felt-tip pens are easy to see when you're marking, but they can be too thick for precision work. A sharp pencil is often better, but pencil lines can be hard to see on some surfaces and can get erased in the process of cutting, such as when using a water-cooled diamond-wheel tile cutter.

Rights and rungs

4. Working safely on ladders is a must, and not doing something as simple as extending a stepladder fully can be dangerous. Many ladders come with instructions about how much weight they can take, which side you can climb up (if you can use both sides), how to lock them in place and other ways to use them safely. Never stretch or overreach when you're up a ladder because this could destabilise you and it, and make sure you wear sensible shoes that won't slip off. Your ladder should have non-slip feet for safety, but the feet also help to prevent damage to flooring indoors.

Secure extension

5. Outdoors, extension ladders should be placed on a firm, level surface and the top should rest against something solid, ie not things like gutters and windowpanes. To stop the ladder from slipping, secure both the top and bottom with straps or ropes and clips or hooks, ensuring they're anchored to something immovable, or put something really heavy against the bottom of the ladder so it can't move. If you can get someone to hold the ladder while you're up it, even better. Extension ladders can be particularly dangerous on 'shiny' floors, such as tiles or floorboards with a gloss finish – I know someone whose unsecured ladder slipped on a wooden floor, causing him to be hospitalised.

Keeping up appearances

Making sure your house has kerb appeal can add value to your property if it's a spring sale you're after

New research from Barclays Mortgages suggests buyers have definite ideas about the outside appearance of a property – and 44 per cent would demand a discount of up to 20 per cent if it had poor “kerb appeal”.

Based on average UK house prices, this could mean as much as £57,600 being knocked off a property's asking price.

So with so much of a home's value depending on its external appearance, we asked Lucy Alexander, star of the BBC's Homes Under The Hammer and spokeswoman for the Barclays Mortgages Kerb Appeal campaign, for tips on sprucing up a property this spring – whether your budget is big or small...

■ What factors appeal to buyers when looking at the outside of a property, and what puts them off?

“From experience, it's always best to keep things simple. The cleaner a property looks from the exterior, the more people will want to look at its interior.

“If your home has overgrowing weeds, rubbish laying on the road or an unappealing looking front door, a buyer isn't likely to want to enter.

“You have to put yourself inside their minds, as if you're seeing the property for the first time.”

■ How big an influence is the outside of a property on people's buying decisions generally?

“It's huge. It's the first thing you see, so your senses are hyper-active when looking at the outside of a property for the first time. If you're going to live somewhere, you have to feel comfortable with the outside before you even start visualising whether the house fits your needs.”

■ Should buyers dismiss a property just because it looks awful from the outside – or should they be prepared to overlook its “ugliness”?

“They shouldn't dismiss it at all. There are many Tardis-like properties out there that are so much more attractive on the inside and, from experience, you should always take a look inside – even if it's really ugly! It might just change your mind.

“That being said, many buyers don't have this attitude, so a property that is easy on the eye always gives a helping hand.”

■ If you had a limited budget, say £500, to do up the outside of a property that was scruffy to make it appeal more to buyers, what would you do?

“Give it a good clean and tidy! It's fine having slightly old windows and not having the most expensive plant pots, as long as it looks neat. This way, it may not stand out and give that ‘wow’ factor, but it will look like a blank canvas that a new buyer can put their own stamp on.”

■ If you had a big budget, say £10,000, to spruce up the outside of a property to make it appeal more to buyers, what would you do?

“I would buy a new front door – new research from Barclays Mortgages said how buyers value a simple and classic front door.

“Then I'd go for new windows, they can give a house such a facelift and make everything look that much better. If there's a little money left, I'd invest in some new potted plants to add some colour and detail.”

■ If someone wants to spruce up the outside of a property to make it more appealing to sell, what should they bear in mind? Is there a danger they could end up spending too much money?

“You can always spend too much money. The main thing I'd advise is to take your time with it. Walk up your street and look at your house as if you hadn't seen it before. Ask yourself, what needs to change? It might be as easy as cutting the grass and edging it, which costs no money at all. Spending time and making good will always be my choice over buying good.”

■ Finally, is it still possible to get a “bargain” property in the current housing market?

“It's always possible. It's tough to give an exact formula though. I think half of it is taking the time to look at lots of properties and weigh up your options before committing, but half is a little bit of luck.

“The amount of people I've met who have taken risks on properties and they've paid off is actually quite high. Just make sure you do your research.”

New plants for free

Layering is a great way of propagating hard-to-root shrubs. Hannah Stephenson shows you how...

There are some plants that just don't do very well with traditional propagation from cuttings – rhododendrons, camellias, honeysuckles and daphnes are just a few.

But many 'problem plants' can be propagated by a method called layering. Unlike cuttings, which have to survive on their own, simple layering induces roots without actually cutting the shoots off the parent plant. And because the shoots have a source of food and water from the parent plant while they are forming roots, they have a good chance of survival.

Simple layering is best done in spring or autumn, when the plant is actively growing. Choose a branch that is no more than two seasons old, which is at ground level or can be bent to touch the soil.

Dig the ground over where the branch is to connect with the soil, making a small hole where the stem will be positioned, adding a little compost and sharp sand to form a free-draining area to encourage rooting.

PRETTY IN PINK: Camellias can be difficult to propagate

Strip the branch of leaves within 15cm on either side of where the stem is to touch the soil, to concentrate the plant's energies on creating new roots, then cut a slit in the stem and push the damaged stem into the hole, pegging it down with a forked stick or U-shaped piece of wire to hold it down, ensuring the wound is in direct contact with the soil.

Peg the resulting shoots upright, so they will grow upwards and be easier to lift later on. If you need to, stake the shoot beyond the rooting stem so that it isn't damaged by wind rock (when roots are loosened because of strong winds). Cover the stem with more compost and water in to settle the soil.

It's wise to put a large stone over the top, both to hold the layer in place and to conserve moisture. It may take the layer up to two years to root, but when it does it can be detached and replanted.

Other shrubs suitable for layering include magnolia, syringa, forsythia and viburnum. Upright plants whose branches won't easily connect with the soil, such as witch hazel, acer and jasmine may be more suited to air layering, a technique whereby the compost is taken to the layer rather than the other way round.

Start by making a cut in the stem just below a leaf joint and passing vertically through it up the stem. Sprinkle hormone rooting powder on the cut, keeping it open with either a matchstick or a small amount of moist sphagnum moss. Wrap more moss around the joint and then wrap the whole thing in clear polythene, tying it top and bottom. After a while, roots will form and you should see them through the polythene.

PROPAGATE: Honeysuckle plants are more suited to serpentine layering as a way of making new plants

Once the shoot has rooted, detach it from the parent by cutting below the rooted section using secateurs, then pot up the detached plant in the normal way.

To increase stocks of blackberries and hybrid berries, try tip layering. In mid-to-late spring, choose a long arching stem that easily reaches ground level. Bury the tip of the shoot 7.5cm (3in) under the surface of the soil. Peg it down (if necessary) with a loop of thick wire. Water if dry. Roots should develop from the shoot tip by the following autumn or spring.

Serpentine layering is more suitable for climbers such as clematis, jasmine, wisteria and honeysuckle. It involves looping the stems of climbers in and out of the soil – so that you end up with a sort of Loch Ness monster effect – to encourage roots to develop at several points along the stem. The technique is similar to simple layering, although thin-stemmed climbers don't have to be wounded.

First impression

WOODEN front doors are solid, have a natural look and feel, and are available in both traditional and modern styles.

They can be painted any colour to match the outside of the house, and can be varnished or stained.

If you're concerned about the source of the wood, FSC-certified doors – available at Wickes – are environmentally sustainable.

From a practical point of view, it's often easy to replace an existing wooden door without taking out the entire frame – wooden doors will fit most standard frame sizes and can usually be trimmed down for minor adjustments.

A drawback of wooden doors is that they require regular maintenance in order to have a long lifespan.

■ UPVC doors are virtually maintenance free and usually supplied as a door set, with a frame and multi-point locking system.

The frame will need to be fitted into a brickwork opening and so may require a professional to install it.

When buying a UPVC door, it's important to remember that the sizes are set, so the door can't be trimmed down.

■ Composite doors are also low-maintenance and almost always come as a door set. They are thermally efficient and compatible with more advanced security features, such as more sophisticated locking systems, but tend to be slightly more expensive.

These doors can't be trimmed down, but should save the installer time and effort because the door furniture usually comes pre-installed.

■ The lifespan of a front door depends on how you maintain and care for it – most exterior doors last from ten to 30 years.

All options, including wooden doors, perform well in damp locations, provided the door is correctly finished and maintained.

UPVC and composite doors require far less maintenance than wooden doors and can be more durable in coastal areas.

■ Door furniture on wooden doors can be easily replaced to make it look newer or more contemporary.

In most cases, this is as simple as removing the screws from the piece of door furniture and replacing it with a newer equivalent.

Door furniture on UPVC and composite doors may not be easy to change, depending on how it's fixed to the door. If it's permanently fixed, it can't be removed and so the whole door may have to be replaced.

MODERN STYLE: Lavender Double Divan in Brera Cestino Noir, £2,050, available from Buttonand sprung.com

A haven for sleeping in

It's National Bed Month, a great excuse to size up the mattress and breathe new life into the bedroom, says Sam Wylie-Harris

When it comes to creating the perfect environment for a good night's sleep, your style is as important as the bed you choose.

Along with the right mattress, your bedstead or divan is the perfect platform to express your personality. And with March marking National Bed Month, there couldn't be a better time to drift into comfortable slumber and design the bed (room) of your dreams.

FABRICS

We spend a third of our lives in bed, so having fun with fabrics, bed linen and other furnishings will not only enhance your sleep experience, but help you unwind and relax in style.

"A busy life doesn't equal busy bedroom decor," says Samantha

Parish, interior design account manager at Hypnos beds. "If you're someone that has a hectic work schedule or social life, then your bedroom space should be a sanctuary of clean lines, light colours and soft shades, and completely free from clutter. This bedroom style will help a busy mind to relax, and begin to calmly process the day's thoughts before it's time to sleep."

Parish suggests a mattress with intuitive pocket springs that offer maximum support and helps to relieve pressure in the spine and muscles, allowing your body to fully relax and your mind to unwind.

Contemporary, clean lines complete the look and neutral tones will add a designer hotel bedroom vibe.

■ Heritage President Supreme Bed in Tweed White with Euro-Slim Victoria Headboard

also in Tweed White, from £3,927 for a double bed (this includes a full bed set – mattress, divan and headboard), Hypnos (www.hypnosbeds.com)

■ Lavender Double Divan (with a choice of feet) in Brera Cestino Noir, F1996/04 by Designers Guild, £2,050 (delivery approx 4-6 weeks), Button & Sprung (www.buttonandsprung.com)

■ Genoa Bed Linen Collection – Ash Rose; Standard Oxford Pillowcase, £18, Double Duvet Cover, £75, Double Flat Sheet, £50, The White Company (www.thewhitecompany.com)

CLASSIC

"A timeless, classic style has a regal feel and is subtle, formal and elegant," says Parish. "It's suited to the sleeper who likes to drift off to sleep in a calming environment without any form of chaos."

ED BYRNE: OUTSIDE, LOOKING IN

Harlow Playhouse
Tuesday, March 22 (7.30pm) £19

The Irish comedian and Essex resident takes a break from recording Mock The Week to return to live performance with his latest show of observational comedy.

Rapunzel is rocking into the Playhouse

ARMED with a frying pan and electric guitar Rapunzel is back as you've never seen her before.

Pantomime favourite Tom Swift said he has drawn inspiration from The Beatles in creating new production Rapunzel Rocks, which comes to Harlow Playhouse at the end of March.

"Rehearsing begins this week, and it is quite a nice process. But it is an intense 11am-8pm practice every day to get through everything," said the 31-year-old, looking ahead.

"The script is ready and the set is looking lovely. It is all coming together."

Tom has been busy directing and scoring music for the play which he also stars in. It tells the story of 18-year-old princess Rapunzel banished to a tower under the evil plan of witch Horrobella.

A prince and supporting cast of air-headed companions attempt to find the long-haired beauty to a soundtrack of 1950s and 60s rock and roll.

The Harlow performances will kick off a whirlwind Easter holiday tour around the South East. This takes in Gravesend, Eastbourne and finishes at the Trinity Theatre in Tunbridge Wells, where Tom lives with wife, actress Amanda Swift, who stars as Rapunzel.

Jimmy Burton-Iles is back in drag as Horrobella while Ant Payne returns as Silly Billy, giving a familiar look to the cast.

A specially-designed set has to be transferred and re-modelled in each of these four locations as the actors travel from place to place.

"Harlow Playhouse is a second home for me," said Tom, who is fresh from directing and starring in a long and hugely successful run of Snow White and Seven Dwarfs at the venue over Christmas.

"It was their most successful production to date, there were lots of positive reviews and a great reaction on Facebook."

The talented Tom also wrote, composed, directed and starred in previous hit Easter productions The Wizard of Oz and Robin Hood, which was performed at Harlow Playhouse 12 months ago.

Over his years of performing Tom has become best known among young audiences as a likeable dimwit who provides comic relief.

Moving on from previous incarnations Silly Billy and Simple Simon, he returns as in a similar role as Joey the Jester.

"Sometimes I can start to go onto autopilot with these roles," Tom confessed.

"I have to come on and introduce myself to the audience, and I sometimes stop on stage and ask myself what I am doing, and who I am playing. But thankfully, that has only happened in rehearsals."

"Not once has that happened on stage. I'm still on the ball for the moment, although I fear what might happen as I get older!"

Christmas 2015 does not seem a long time ago, but as soon as the curtain lowered on Snow White, Tom was straight back behind the piano to compose a new score for Rapunzel Rocks, before scripting and casting the play.

"My first ever pantomime was Rapunzel and for this production we have completely changed it around," he said of the thinking behind the show.

"I sat down at the piano and knocked out some original songs. The show has a unique feel to it and we are not copying anyone else."

"The original Rapunzel by the Brothers Grimm was very dark and we have made a different version that is for the whole family to enjoy."

"The main difference is Rapunzel is not in the tower at the beginning, but she is sent there on her 18th birthday. That was our idea to introduce the character in a new way."

"Like the original we have a bit of a story where she has healing powers, but there is a lot of comedy too."

He added: "We have to work to keep the comedy fresh as Playhouse audiences will remember if we repeat a routine we have used in the past. But I think we have nailed it this year - especially with a routine involving marshmallows!"

The rock and roll theme is another new twist on the classic tale with Tom drawing inspiration from Grease, The Beatles and The Everly Brothers to give a new setting with shades of the 1950s and 60s.

"With Robin Hood we tried something different to chart songs, and people did not complain, so we did the same again here."

"The play takes on an element of flair through the music and there is a more up-tempo feel to it. But it is classic rock and roll rather than metal or anything. The audience won't have us screaming in high voices at them."

"This Rapunzel is a character with a bit more oomph than the classic fairytale princess and I think stronger female leads is a trend we're seeing now in Hollywood films."

"It gives girls the belief that they can stand up for themselves. There is a scene where Rapunzel wields a saucepan, although luckily my character stays well out of the way."

Tom said 2016 is set to be a "very busy year" with Rapunzel Rocks set to be followed by his debut one man show in July titled Tom Foolery, where he performs comic magic.

A detour into scary stuff will follow through Halloween but the focus once again will be on Christmas Pantomime which is a daunting thought, even in March.

"Easter is so crazy," he added. "It is a difficult thing to do all the writing and directing for this, but it has been good fun."

"It will all be worthwhile if people come along and enjoy it, so I hope they do!"

■ Rapunzel Rocks will land at Harlow Playhouse on Sunday, March 26 with shows running twice daily until Thursday, March 31 excluding Easter Monday. Tickets cost £13.50-£17.50. For bookings and more information visit: www.playhouseharlow.com.

Great time for jazz fans over Easter weekend

JAZZ fans are in for a very good Friday when the Alex Garnett Quartet perform over Easter weekend.

The awesome foursome will take to the stage at Harlow Cricket Club on Friday, March 25 for a show packed with sax appeal.

Alex Garnett is one of the country's most in demand session players. He has played saxophone with Ray Gelato's Giants and featured on recordings by Jools Holland and Van Morrison.

Paul Weller, Johnny 'Guitar' Watson and Albert King are just some of the pop and blues musicians he has toured and played with over the years.

Now the sax man is bringing his band to Harlow in the latest exciting Friday session at the cricket club. Alex heads the quartet which also contains Brian Dee on keyboards, Len Skeats on bass guitar and Niel Bullock on drums.

The four will play some jazz classics and original compositions from their own recordings.

Born in London into a family of musicians, 46-year-old Alex was classically trained from a young age. He soon followed father's love of jazz, often at his own gigs or listening to the many musicians that jammed at the family home.

Alex has been professional since 1993 and has toured with various artists, as well as his own bands, for more than 20 years.

The Alex Garnett Quartet will perform at Harlow Cricket Club at Marigolds, Chippingfield, Old Harlow, on Friday, March 25. The show begins at 7.30pm and tickets are available on the door.

Art is going out on the town

ART is going Out on Tour in Harlow this weekend with some unique events from the Gibberd Gallery.

From today (Thursday) until Saturday a team from the Gibberd Gallery will be at work in the shopping centre creating a new smaller version of Harlow Family Group.

Henry Moore's famous original work is currently situated in the Civic Centre, home to the Gibberd Gallery, who are producing the new models as part of the Out on Tour project.

The second Out on Tour event gives participants the chance to create their own bag inspired by the gallery's watercolour collection.

Artist Ella Mary leads the workshops which run from 11.30am-3.30pm on Saturday, and the gallery will be open for visitors until 4pm.

Artist Amanda Westbury and Elaine Tribble will be leading a tour of the town's sculptures throughout Saturday.

For more information visit www.gibberdgallery.co.uk.

Visually-impaired actors perform surprise hit

A THEATRE company for visually impaired people will give a fresh take on a classic tale at Harlow Playhouse. Blind director Maria Oshodi has taken on the challenge of re-telling The Chairs written by Eugene Ionesco.

The tragic farce will be performed by two visually-impaired actors at Harlow Playhouse on Sunday, April 3 as part of Pay What You Can season – where audiences can donate money at the end.

"The Chairs is about two characters, only known as Old Man and Old Woman," said Maria, who is the artistic director of Extant, the company who are performing the play.

"They frantically prepare chairs for a series of invisible guests to come to their home creating an undefined space where anarchy, ageing and anxiety collide."

The narrative implies the Old Man has discovered the meaning of life and the invisible guests are coming to hear an orator spill the beans.

However, the play's mysterious dialogue keeps the audience guessing by never fully describing everything that is going on which makes for an absorbing plot among farcical comedy.

Tim Gebbles, who starred in Channel 4 comedy Cast Offs, plays the Old Man while Extant regular Heather Gilmore plays the Old Woman.

Both will appear in front of a stunning set, multi-layered sound scape and of course many, many chairs.

Ionesco's play is widely considered to be a theatre classic within the absurdist theatrical genre, having first been performed in 1952 at the Théâtre Lancy in Paris.

It was revived by Theatre de Complicite and the Royal Court Theatre in 1998, and became a surprise hit in London and on Broadway.

The performance at Harlow Playhouse kicks off a mini UK tour which will see the play travel to Birmingham, Salford Quays and London throughout April.

Along with playwright Martin Crimp, Maria, who founded the company in 1997, has adapted the production to be appreciated by blind members of the audience.

She added: "The casting of visually impaired characters brings a unique interpretation to this tragic farce."

"It also cleverly incorporates audio description into the play with the actors' voices giving the pertinent visual descriptions that a visually impaired audience would normally hear through headphones.

"In this manner the entire audience, both visually impaired and sighted, share the same experience."

Through some brilliant performances The Chairs is an eye-opening play performed by visually impaired actors.

The quirky tale conveys both joy and sadness in a production that will live long in the memories of audiences.

Extant will perform The Chairs at Harlow Playhouse on Sunday, April 3 at 3pm. The performance is held as part of the Pay What You Can series with audience members given the opportunity to donate at the end of the show. For more information visit: www.playhouseharlow.com.

FILMGUIDE

HIGH SOCIETY:
Tom Hiddleston
as Dr Robert
Laing in High-Rise

The high life

High-Rise

DRAMA: (15)

Director: Ben Wheatley

Starring: Tom Hiddleston, Sienna Miller, Luke Evans, Jeremy Irons, Elisabeth Moss, James Purefoy, Keeley Hawes

JG Ballard's cult novel High-Rise is one of those books. Notorious as Fear And Loathing and Naked Lunch for pushing boundaries, Ballard's 1975 study of societal breakdown and psychosexual excess in a luxury Brutalist tower block has a wholly deserved reputation for its imaginative brilliance and chilling prescience.

Producer Jeremy Thomas has been trying to make a film of it for years but, with its extremes of behaviour and lack of conventional narrative niceties, it obviously hasn't been an easy sell. Nic Roeg was lined up to make it in the late 1970s but made Bad Timing instead and it's sat on the shelf until now with another maverick British director Ben Wheatley (Kill List, Sightseers) summoning his considerable talents into making his own version of it.

Wheatley has assembled a fabulous cast for this film, at the centre of which is Tom Hiddleston as the story's main character (you don't really get 'heroes' with Ballard) Dr Robert Laing. In a retro-futuristic vision of the 1970s, Laing has moved into a 40-storey tower block, which is as much a social experiment as a housing project. Designed by megalomaniac architect Anthony Royal (Jeremy Irons), who lives on the upper floors with his upper class pals, the building is a self-contained vertical community with its own supermarket, swimming pool and gym. The hierarchy is simple; the richer you are, the higher up you live. Laing lives in the middle section, ordinary families live in the lower reaches.

It's not long before these divides – and the moral codes of wider civil society – break down. Wild parties degenerate very quickly into orgiastic sprees of sex and violence until there is all-out war between floors as the power goes out and resources get scarcer.

Somehow Laing manages to remain aloof to what is going despite being in the thick of it, "hidden in plain view" as one character describes him. He parties with Sienna Miller's social butterfly Charlotte, charismatic bruiser Wilder (Luke Evans) and his pregnant wife Helen (Elisabeth Moss) in the middle floors but gets invited to Royal's penthouse in the upper echelons too. He is part of the madness but separate from it too, watching it all unfold.

That madness is brilliantly realised by Wheatley and his writing/editing partner Amy Jump along with their production team. On what must have been a limited budget, they've created a vivid, throbbing, thoroughly entertaining nightmare – the Tower of Babel with seventies architecture and decor.

Fuelled by striking visuals and Clint Mansell's pulsating soundtrack (listen out for two extraordinary versions of Abba's SOS), the mounting hysteria and anarchy of High-Rise becomes ever more shocking as the violence escalates. Wheatley depicts it all with style and wit, leaving us equal parts repelled and fascinated by the end. Very Ballardian.

SO MUCH TO SEE AND DO 16

Suspicion runs high in thrilling survival story

CHILLING: John Goodman as Howard; Mary Elizabeth Winstead as Michelle in 10 Cloverfield Lane

10 Cloverfield Lane

THRILLER: (15) 103 minutes
Director: Dan Trachtenberg
Starring: Mary Elizabeth Winstead, John Goodman, John Gallagher Jr, Bradley Cooper

TWO'S company, three's a paranoia-riddled crowd in 10 Cloverfield Lane, a thrilling companion piece to the 2008 found footage sci-fi Cloverfield, which witnessed an otherworldly attack on New York City through the lens of a resident's camcorder.

The monsters in Dan Trachtenberg's suffocating three-hander are distinctly human but no less terrifying, driven to acts of violence and barbarity in the name of self-preservation.

Josh Campbell, Matt Stuecken and Damien Chazelle's deliciously ambiguous script keeps us guessing about where that safety might be, constantly shifting the balance of power between characters whose ulterior motives are shrouded in mystery.

Every time we think we have a grasp on the slippery narrative, the film pulls another rug from under us, flinging us into a mire of nerve-jangling confusion.

The less you know about Trachtenberg's picture before the lights dim, the better.

In an affectionate nod to Hitchcock's Psycho, the director cranks up the tension with opening shots of a young woman, Michelle (Mary Elizabeth Winstead), driving away from her old life in the city.

She stops for petrol and takes a pleading telephone call from her boyfriend Ben (voiced by Bradley Cooper) shortly before her car spins out of control and plunges down a bank.

She regains consciousness in an underground bunker, at the mercy of a survivalist called Howard Stambler (John Goodman).

"You're lucky to be here at all," he informs Michelle cryptically.

As she regains her strength, Michelle learns that Howard saved her and his neighbour Emmett (John Gallagher Jr) shortly before a devastating global attack rendered the surface of the Earth uninhabitable.

The trio are safely cocooned within an airtight bunker, 40 feet below the polluted surface without any telephone signal, until the air is breathable again.

The survivors have water, food and electricity thanks to Howard's ingenuity and forward planning, and make the best of a hellish situation.

However, Michelle isn't sure if she can trust everything that Howard tells her.

10 Cloverfield Lane is a polished masterclass in suggestion that sends chills down the spine with unsettling regularity.

Goodman is genuinely creepy as the conspiracy theorist who doesn't tolerate defiance of his rules in his underground lair.

Winstead and Gallagher Jr are equally strong as discomfited house guests, who harbour secrets that could destroy them or set them free.

Trachtenberg's direction draws on the claustrophobic setting to plant seeds of doubt and suspicion, including a couple of thrilling action sequences with delightfully unexpected pay-offs.

Egg-cellent idea for Eastertime

WITH Easter almost upon us, I wanted to make some pretty decoupage eggs to decorate a branch with for Easter weekend.

So my craft group and I had a fun-filled day of making. I used duck eggs for this project and we found they worked much better than plastic ones, but you could use whatever you prefer.

This is a lovely little project and it took me just two hours to decorate six eggs. It would also be an ideal project for kiddies too – just be prepared to make a lot of egg-based dishes afterwards!

You will need:

- six white duck eggs – though you could really use any egg, real or plastic
- Some pretty napkins or very fine decoupage paper – the finer the better, if it's too thick it won't fit smoothly around the egg.
- A long wool needle – this is essential as you need to be able to thread the string through the egg. The needle needs to be slightly longer than the egg and the eye needs to be big enough to thread string or ribbon through.

- six buttons – the holes on the button need to be big enough to thread your string or ribbon.
- branch (optional) – I picked up this branch from my local florist
- Brown string or thin ribbon
- PVA glue

Step 1 – Empty the egg

Pierce the top of the egg with a needle, in fact, make a few holes as close together as possible. I was expecting to break quite a few but they are surprisingly tough and I didn't have one casualty! You may need to push quite hard (a thimble or your nail might be handy).

When you have a few little holes make them bigger by gently pushing/turning a screw into it. Do this at both ends.

When you have a hole both ends, empty the egg out, by simply blowing in one end over a bowl, allowing the egg to trickle out the other. You might need to blow hard and make sure the yoke has burst to make it easier. Once empty, give it a good rinse and blow the excess water out.

Step 2 – Threading the egg

Thread a long piece of string or ribbon through the egg from top to bottom. Then thread the top piece of string through the buttonholes to create your loop.

Once threaded, pop it back through the egg and out through the bottom, where you can tie a knot and snip off any long strands.

Step 3 – Decoupage the egg

One of the craft ladies brought these pretty napkins and they worked perfectly! I simply cut around little bits of the design. I cut it into a few bite-sized chunks, as it's easier than sticking on a large piece.

Once cut out, remove any excess layers of tissue and just use the top piece. Then simply glue it on, give the whole egg one final coat and hang it to dry.

And that's it! Happy Easter, folks!

Infamous 'Chocolate Cream poisoner' Miss Christiana Edmunds is the sickly sweet leading lady in a cast of notoriously 'wicked' women at the London Dungeon this Easter. From Friday, March 25 to Sunday, April 10 she will be dishing out her deadly confectionery to any guest willing to listen to her poisonous tale. But beware...behind her charm lies a nature toxic enough to turn even the sweetest treat sour ... this is Easter, London Dungeon style! And as well as wicked women there are plenty of villainous men on the loose in the London Dungeon too - from Henry VIII to Jack the Ripper, Guy Fawkes to Sweeney Todd - as 1000 years of London's dark past is brought to life in 19 shows, two thrilling rides plus plenty of edge-of-the-seat surprises.

COVER PROPERTY > Rose Cottage, Berden

This beautiful home is being marketed for £825,000 by Knight Frank, 26 North Street, Bishop's Stortford. Tel: (01279) 213340

SALE
FACTS

Period features at beautiful home in Essex countryside

ROSE Cottage is a Grade II-listed detached property offering a wealth of period features in the picturesque Essex village of Berden.

Rendered with a peg tile roof dating back to 1690, with later extensions, the property offers spacious family accommodation and is equipped to a high standard.

Rose Cottage provides good-sized reception rooms with generous ceiling heights.

The spacious sitting room has a dual aspect room with windows to front and rear of property, an open fireplace as well as a second inglenook fireplace with log burning stove.

The dining room leads through to the kitchen, which was bespoke designed by John Ladbury & Co and to the rear there is an impressive hardwood conservatory/breakfast room, enjoying double door access to the garden with Fired Earth flooring.

Just off the kitchen, the utility room has plenty of storage space, plumbing and space for a washing machine as well as a Belfast sink. There is a stable door to the garden and a further door to the sitting room.

Upstairs, in addition to the master bedroom, there are three further bedrooms as well as a shower room and a family bathroom.

The present owners have installed excellent built-in storage fitted throughout the bedrooms.

Approached via a gravel drive, the property has plenty of parking with twin detached garages.

The front garden is laid to lawn with herbaceous borders and picket fencing to front boundary.

A gate gives access to the secluded rear garden which has a brick paved walk-way, a terrace, lawns and numerous mature trees and shrubs.

To the rear of the garden there is a further terrace enjoying the evening sun which is ideal for "al fresco" entertaining

HARLOW COLLEGE

Would you like to be part of an award winning College, with a strong commitment to student success?

Harlow College is seeking to appoint the following staff:

Tutors in Employability, Innovation and Skills Academy

Salary: £24,071 to £28,636

Status: 1 post is temporary until 31st July 2016, 1 post is permanent Hours: both posts are full time (37 hours per week)

The role of the Tutor in the Employability, Innovation and Skills Academy is to deliver teaching, learning and assessment to unemployed learners to support their progression to employment and/or further training. This also includes providing tutorials and learning support.

The successful candidate will be required to travel to various locations on a daily basis (for which travel expenses will be paid) and be able to teach basic construction skills to prepare learners for CSCS tests.

We want to hear from you if you have:

- Knowledge of employability skills
- Ideally, a degree or equivalent and a relevant teaching qualification (or the ability to obtain one)
- Excellent organisation, planning and assessment skills that enable effective learning

To discover more about working within our challenging and fast paced organisation, including details of our excellent benefits and annual leave package, call or email us now.

Closing date for applications

Weds 30th March 2016

Now then mate, you coming out tonight, everybody's out.

Sorry mate no cash, gutted!!!

Saw Steve last week and he told me everybody's out. You were working again, what's happened there?

Still working but it's zero hours, I've only got 8 hours this week!

Nightmare! Should come work here, I know we are looking for more Field Sales staff, full time with a HP tablet, car, phone & uncapped bonus!

But I only have experience in travel.

No worries they recruit on attitude rather than experience. They have excellent training, top team, can you remember Matt from school? He's here too.

Great how do I apply?

Email over your CV and covering letter To our boss Darren's PA Nicole.
nicole.want@hertssexnews.co.uk

Cheers mate, I will do it now!

How about I lend you £40 until your first pay day?

Oh...Go on then mate, you're a legend. When are they interviewing?

They are interviewing next week!

Great stuff, got my mojo back now! See you in the station at 7.30pm

Result all round 7.30pm it is!

If you are able to offer any of the following subjects (whether you have a teaching qualification or are looking to train) we would be interested to hear from you:

Computing	Languages	Physical Education
English	Maths	Sciences
Humanities	Performing Arts	Social Sciences
Film and Media	Photography	Technologies

If you are interested in our training opportunities, contact Jen Austin at 01279 756305.

For all other enquiries, contact Ann MacRae on 01279 654127.
The school is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of young people and expects all members of staff to share this commitment. Full employment checks and an enhanced DBS disclosure are required for all posts.

BATTLING Harlow Ladies belied their lowly league position as they were edged out in a five-goal epic against title-chasing Upminster.

With more than 30 points separating the teams, Upminster must have expected to walk over a Harlow side who were without captain Emma Tweddle, ruled out for the rest of the season through injury.

Harlow had a point to prove though, after a controversial Upminster goal denied them a point in the away fixture earlier in the year.

But it was the visitors who took the lead through a short corner.

Keeper Laura Hay saved an initial shot, but was unable to clear it and the goal-line scramble led to the opening goal of the match.

Harlow reacted well to conceding and equalised when Steffy Hawes smashed a shot past the Upminster keeper.

A well rehearsed Upminster attack led to a series of short corners, which Anita Shearman and Rowena Ricketts were quick to close down.

Harlow had chances but it was Upminster who were ahead at half-time after breaching the home backline twice for a 3-1 lead.

A change in formation in the second half gave Harlow more power on the left.

A typical Ricketts surge forward found Georgina Esterhuysen-Smith on the edge of the D, and she slipped the ball to striker Liz Green who fired in.

At 3-2 the momentum was now with Harlow.

Bethan Spencer and player of the match Charlotte Byers supplied the forwards with further chances to score, but Harlow could not conjure an equaliser.

On Saturday, Harlow play their last match of the season at ninth-placed Southend, but their far inferior goal difference means they can finish no higher than tenth in the 12-team division.

■ Harlow Ladies' seconds won 7-0 against bottom of the table Old Southendians in the Essex Hockey League Division Three.

Scorers were Sarah Donaghey (2), Nina Johnson-Marshall, Hayley Leach, Tiegian Claridge, Tracey Taylor and Laura Maynard.

CHAMPIONS Harlow's bid to go through the season unbeaten at home was ended when they were edged out in a five-goal thriller against fourth-placed Havering.
Ben Light's men started well and went ahead after only ten minutes.
But the visitors hit back with two goals in quick succession to take the lead, after exposing a weakness down the hosts' left flank, enabling their playmaker to convert two chances.
Controversy reigned just before the break when a tackle from Harlow's Kim Harvey led to a penalty flick.
In the fracas that followed Harlow's Adam Otley picked up a green card.
The Havering player stepped up to take the flick, but Harlow keeper Richard Norris's psychological warfare worked as the player put this well wide of the goal.
Harlow took their frustration out on Havering in the second half to grab a deserved equaliser.
The match looked destined for a stalemate but Havering had other ideas and netted a late goal to take the points and shatter Harlow's fantastic home record.
Harlow visit Chelmsford on Saturday, their penultimate game.
Clacton II and Brentwood IV will join Harlow in Division Five South East next season.

TITLE-WINNERS Harlow Hawks geared up for the end-of-season play-offs in April with a comprehensive 88-32 defeat of Brentwood Bears in the Essex League Division Two.

It wrapped up the league season as the Harlow Leisurezone-based club ended their debut Essex season with only one loss.

With a number of senior team players unavailable, two U18 players, Mubbasher Niaz and Andrius Savcenko, stepped in for Friday's game.

Hawks' took some time to warm up, scoring six points in the first five minutes. Dan Cohen and Shab Niaz added six points apiece, including two three pointers from the latter.

Lee Morris scored five points including a three pointer.

Hawks' strong defence limited the Bears to only six points for the whole quarter.

In the first three minutes of the second quarter the Bears out-scored the Hawks 7-5.

However, Niaz and Tom White combined for 12 points, including two three pointers from Niaz.

Player/coach Saul Friedner opened his account this quarter with back to back baskets and actually ended the game with a season high 14 points.

Hawks were 41-15 up at the end of the quarter.

Harlow stepped up a gear in the third quarter and went on a 14-0 run from the fourth minute.

A superb three-point play from U18 player Mubbasher Niaz, a three pointer from Stuart Burgess plus other scores opened up a big gap.

The visitors hit 11 points, their best of the match, but the game was as good as over with Hawks 64-26 up heading into the final quarter.

Hawks could have taken their foot off the gas but were determined to reach a high score. U18 Savcenko hit back-to-back baskets in a ten-point haul for the teenager, followed by back-to-back three pointers from Shab Niaz.

In the last five minutes, Hawks went on another 14-0 run which was led by Friedner, scoring a total of eight points including a three pointer as Harlow secured a win by 56 points.

HARLOW HAWKS: S Niaz 18pts, Cohen 18, White 18, Friedner 14, Burgess 3, M. Niaz 3, Savcenko 9, Morris 5.

Athletics

ATHLETE Dawn Jones clinched a silver medal at the British Masters Indoor Championships.

The Harlow Athletic Club member was in fine form at the event at the Lee Valley Athletics Centre, taking second spot in the W45 60m hurdles in 10.90sec, a season's best.

In a busy competition for Jones, she also finished fourth in the 400m, clocking 67.62, and was fourth in the 60m.

She won her 60m heat in 8.95, recording the fourth-quickest time overall, also a season's best.

Five young club-mates travelled to Cofton Park in Birmingham to compete for their respective county teams at the UK National Inter Counties Cross Country Championships.

Bright sunshine greeted the athletes on the day and the courses at Cofton are extremely challenging with long, hilly and undulating sections.

The event saw some of Britain's top endurance club athletes compete in the prestigious competition.

In the U13 girls' 3km, Savanna Sirkett was 165th (14.15) and Charlotte Pratt, who was still suffering with a heavy cold, was 251st (14.54) from 302 finishers. Both girls were representing Essex.

In the U13 boys' 3km, Joe Morgan (Essex) was 160th (13.01) from 306 finishers.

In the U15 girls' 4.5km, Hertfordshire's Lottie Rowedder was 55th (18.29) from 302 finishers.

In the U15 boys' 5km, Lewis Harknett was 82nd (17.19).

Second home loss hits Hawks' play-off quest

Brightlingsea's smash-and-grab raid a blow for Harlow

Ryman North

Harlow Town 0
Brightlingsea Regent 1

HAWKS boss Danny Chapman slammed his side after their second home defeat this season.

Only leaders AFC Sudbury had beaten Harlow Town prior to Saturday, when the toothless hosts failed to register a shot on target in the second half.

Chapman said: "We weren't good enough today. The whole side did not perform.

"Congratulations to Brightlingsea, they came with a game plan and we allowed it to affect us.

"For the first time I can say that our front three wasn't effective for the whole game. If you look at the second half, they haven't had a shot, we are in their half the whole time but we did not create enough.

Scrappy

"It was scrappy. Could you say it was because we hadn't played for two weeks? No. They should still be sharp enough.

"We praise them when they need to be praised but today it wasn't quite good enough.

"We still had chances. We should have had two or three goals. We didn't win enough second balls all over the pitch.

"In the first ten minutes we've created two or three chances that should have been goals."

The Hawks remain in third place, but the victory for the seventh-placed visitors keeps the race for the play-offs much tighter than Chapman's men want.

They have also lost vital ground on leaders AFC Sudbury and second-placed Thurrock.

On the day a superb performance from Brightlingsea goalkeeper Sam Cowler proved to be the difference as he thwarted the Hawks on numerous occasions.

A minute's applause was held before the kick-off in memory of Harlow first year academy student Marcel Jayden, who passed away the previous Sunday.

Brightlingsea took the lead on seven minutes with a Terry

Rymer shot hitting the crossbar and bouncing down over the line, despite Hawks goalkeeper David Hughes' best efforts.

Harlow pushed for an equaliser, with Cowler called into action on a couple of occasions.

The visitors also went close on 22 minutes when Jake Clowsley got in behind the Town defence, but he was denied by Hughes.

Alex Read could have levelled matters in the final moments of the first half, but again Cowler made a fine save.

In the second half, lacklustre Harlow struggled to fashion any gilt-edged chances.

The closest they came was when Ibrahima Sonko's towering header clipped a post.

Brightlingsea kept hitman Read on a tight leash.

Back-to-back wins ahead of top test

HARLOW Ladies made it back-to-back wins to cement their top four spot in the National Women's Challenge South East North Division One table.

Beaten in the reverse fixture away to Lakenham Hewett, the Ram Gorse side showed character as they fought back from two tries down to triumph.

Lakenham took an early lead when a player jumped on a loose ball and then ran the length of the pitch to open the scoring.

The visitors then picked up from a Harlow kick and ran through for a second try.

The hosts hit back almost immediately when Brittany Stoneman was chased down by Anne-Marie Rand who put in a great tackle that caused a knock-on. Quick back play from the base of a strong scrum made the most of a scrappy defence and Dani McKenna went over the line for Harlow's first try.

The second half saw Harlow play down the slope and were camped in the visitors' half.

Scrum-half Jenny Mills made the most of quick ball to force her way over the line and level the score at 10-10.

The win was sealed by a beautifully crafted backs move, straight off the training pitch. Going blind off a scrum it culminated with wing Jamie Marshall sprinting for the line.

With three minutes remaining and the visitors fighting up the hill for a comeback, Lakenham's strong centre was crashed into touch by fly-half Tracey Wedd, and then the final whistle blew.

Harlow Ladies play their final home league game of the season this Sunday against leaders Southwold Swallows (2.30pm start).

Warriors edge out Harlow

HARLOW Hawks lost 76-61 to West Herts Warriors in the Herts County Basketball League Division One.

Hawks went into the game missing key players Tom White and Rimantas Norkelunas, plus coach Saul Friedner.

Russ Allen scored three consecutive baskets to give the hosts a great start.

Two three-pointers from Shab Niaz and two free throws from Allan put them 18-17 up at the end of the first quarter.

Two three pointers from Niaz and one from Stuart Burgess kept the scoreboard ticking over for Harlow, but they were 43-31 down at half-time.

Warriors ended the third quarter 16 points ahead.

A five-point streak from Allan cut the deficit.

The final quarter started with Hawks chipping away at Warriors' lead with steals and baskets from Jimmy Fuhrmann and good scoring from Dan Cohen.

Hawks cut the deficit to nine points with two minutes to go, but the Herts side finished strongly to win by 15 points.

Bravo as cricket club pulls off signing coup

Jamaican paceman dismissed Dwayne first ball LBW

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertssexnews.co.uk

HARLOW Town have pulled off a massive coup by completing the signing of one of Jamaica's most promising fast bowlers ahead of their Essex League campaign.

Chris Powell, 21, is an exciting Jamaican paceman, who bowled experienced West Indies player Dwayne Bravo LBW with his very first ball in one match last year.

He has made a huge impression on the Windies' domestic scene since his introduction in January 2015.

Powell relished his dismissal of Bravo and cannot wait to start at Phoenix Park.

He told the Star: "It was a good feeling. I am looking forward to representing Harlow Town this season."

Gladwin, confirmed as captain of the Shepherd Neame Essex League Division Two side for this season which starts in May, was delighted with the capture of the tall Jamaican.

He said: "It is fantastic to have Chris come on board for the summer."

"We have been looking since September, speaking to different agents about bringing someone in, and we had a list of about 30 or 40 people."

"Luckily I know Andrew Richardson who is a selector for Jamaican Cricket, and he told me about Chris."

"He comes highly recommended from Andrew, who says he is genuinely quick and we have seen some things on Youtube - he looks like he is going to be great for us."

"He will play a big role with the club and can also bat as well which will help."

Powell has played eight List-A matches for the Combined Campuses and Colleges in the West Indies.

He has excelled, taking 13 wickets at 15.69 including best figures of 5-22 in what was only his second outing against Trinidad and Tobago.

His wickets included Trinidad and Tobago skipper Rayad Emrit and the Bravo brothers, Dwayne and Darren, in successive balls. He bowled Dwayne with his first ball in a stunning start.

On his debut, it was his performance with the bat that took centre stage.

Following figures of 1-40, Powell strode to the crease with the score at 112-8 in Combined Campuses and Colleges' pursuit of Guyana's 171.

His 29-ball 27 not out helped guide CCC home by one wicket.

Powell has continued to shine in the Nagico Super 50 (List-A) competition for CCC and looks set for a bright future in the game.

Prominence

The Jamaican speedster initially shot to prominence during two matches against the touring New Zealand side in 2014.

Playing for a Jamaican Select XI, he took five top-order wickets across the two matches, including that of Hamish Rutherford and Tom Latham in both innings in the second three-dayer (2-21 and 2-29).

He is hoping to make a huge impression for the Phoenix Park men in what will be his maiden UK stint in 2016.

Town are targeting promotion this season. "The bowling looks good, but we are going to need everyone to step up with the bat this season," said Gladwin.

"We have lost Ramya [Upadhyay] who scored a large number of our runs so everyone is going to have to chip in."

"The nets have been good, and while we haven't recruited any more the guys are really keen to perform well again."

BIG SIGNING: Jamaican paceman Chris Powell can't wait to start playing for Harlow Town

Rouge look to make history

STALWART football manager Peter Lucia has his sights set on another piece of history as he gets ready to lead his Rouge Returns team into the semi-final of the Essex Premier Cup on Sunday.

Royal Mail worker Lucia, the multi-trophy winning former manager of the successful Saturday side Alemitte Athletic, is ready to deliver Harlow's first win in this competition for more than 20 years.

Harlow & District Sunday Football League side Rouge Returns will take on Colchester-based AFC Pegasus at their Parigdon Sports Club home (10.30am KO) for a place in the final of the county cup contest.

It could be an all-Harlow final if Maiden win their Essex Premier Cup semi-final.

The last time a Harlow team got to the final of this competition was in 1999 when Marquis Sports were runners-up. Maypole were the last Harlow team to win it, back in 1995.

Lucia, who co-manages the side with Stuart Grieves, said: "The whole team plays for each other. We could end up winning five trophies this season and it would not surprise me if we did. Sunday is a massive game for us."

James Thomas has hit 40 goals for Rouge this term, as they look set to capture the Premier Division title.

They beat Maldon & Tiptree 5-4 on penalties after an epic quarter-final ended in a 1-1 draw after extra-time.

No silverware for Tegate

TEGATE Netball Club suffered a heartbreaking defeat in the Chelmsford District Junior League U13 Knockout Cup.

The Harlow team lost 37-19 against Saffron Hawks in the final at Chelmsford.

Hawks ended the first quarter with just a two-goal lead (8-6). The second (16-10) and third quarters (27-16) were fairly close, but Tegate could not bridge that 11-point gap in the final period.

Wood, who ironically was a coach at Harlow Town and was previously a coach at Norwich City, has invited the whole Ronan family over to watch the Gibraltar senior team's game on March 29 against Latvia.

Brays Athletic hit the Jack pot with cup final triumph

Harlow & District League Division Three Cup final

Grove & Hove Albion 2

BRAYS Athletic conquered Grove & Hove Albion in the Division Three Cup final.

Jack Margrain got Brays off to a flying start with a shot which was saved by the Grove keeper Jon-Joe Ward.

The deadlock was broken at Bishop's Stortford FC on 12 minutes. Brays got a free-kick which was quickly taken out wide, a cross came back in for Sam Dearman to head home. Brays got a corner on 19 minutes, from which Brad Pope doubled their lead.

Brays' pressure was telling and they went close again when Margrain's shot was well saved by the Grove keeper.

Ward kept the score down when he made a fantastic tip-over save after an inswinging corner was met by a header from Brays' John Martin.

However, Margrain fired a shot home to make it 3-0 on 31 minutes.

Grove hit back and seven minutes before the break, Shane Hulbert's shot struck the crossbar.

Moments later Hulbert was denied by Brays keeper Chay Brookwell.

Hulbert slotted home to make it 3-1 on 55 minutes.

The game was in the balance when Brays' Jack Caswell was red carded.

Despite being a man down they made it 4-1 when Jack Hayter's great pass found an unmarked Margrain to tap it into an empty net for his hat-trick.

Margrain went close before the best goal of the game saw Hulbert fire in from a free-kick 30 yards out, but it was too late for Grove to find a way back into the match.

GIBRALTAR CALL-UP KEEPS IT IN FAMILY

Kian determined to play for country of grandad's birth

by Alan Scott

alan.scott@hertsessexnews.co.uk

FOOTBALLER Kian Ronan will be thinking of his late grandad when he makes his Gibraltar debut.

The Harlow-based Ipswich Town academy player was selected for the Gibraltar U17 squad – after his nan told Jeff Wood, head coach of the national team, to take a look at the talented player.

Kian, a student at St Mark's in Harlow, has been with Ipswich for the last eight years.

Although not born on the island, his grandparents and mother Nicole were born there, and he was determined to represent the British colony which has become part of UEFA and has been competing in the European Championships' qualifiers for the first time ever.

Kian, who turned 15 on Wednesday last week, is set to feature for Gibraltar in a UEFA U17 Development tournament in Cyprus in April.

Relishing

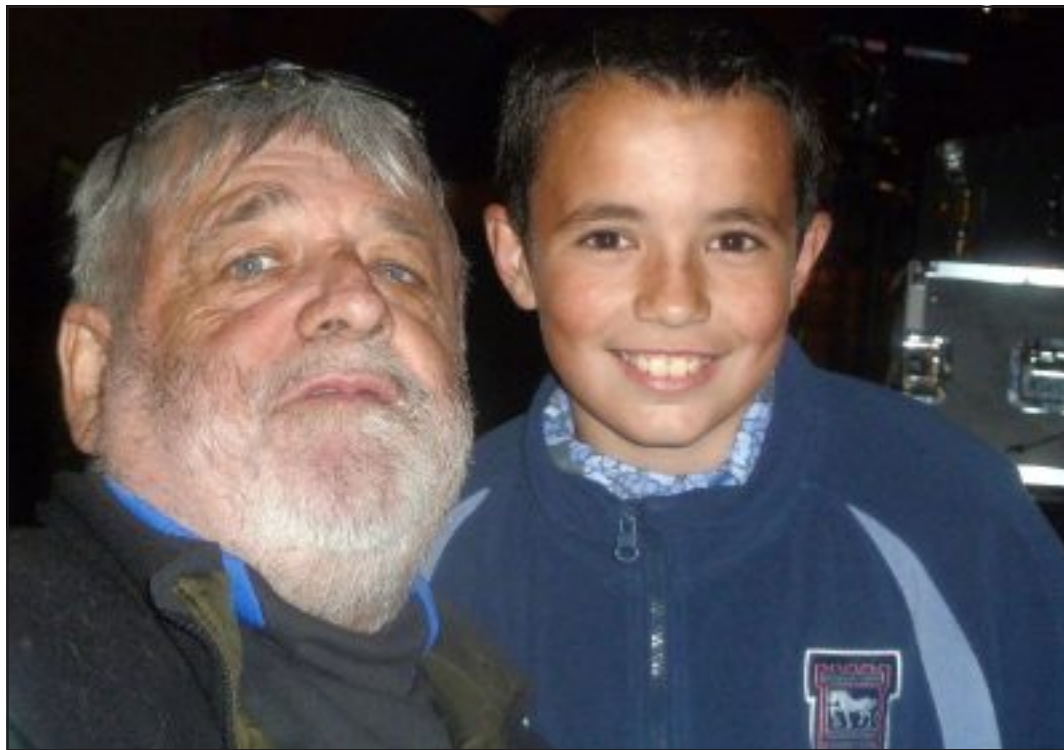

The player is relishing pulling on the Gibraltar shirt for the first time, having impressed in Ipswich matches against the likes of Spurs, Arsenal, QPR and Charlton Athletic.

His inclusion comes exactly two years after the death of his grandfather, Peter Balloqui, a proud Gibraltarian.

Kian's mother Nicole said: "He is excited. Kian made up his mind, he said to his dad 'I will represent Gibraltar one day'. He just wants to represent Gibraltar for his grandad.

"If you're from Gibraltar you are very patriotic and he [Kian] has got that side. He has been every year on holiday since he was born. I have got a lot of family out there."

But Kian was not spotted playing for Ipswich.

His selection came about after his grandmother overheard national team manager Jeff Wood talking about his role with the Gibraltar FA in a bank in Harlow and recommended her grandson to him.

"She heard him saying he was from Gibraltar. She told him about Kian and said he was at Ipswich," said Nicole.

Wood explained: "I do have family and friends in Harlow and yes it was me in the bank. It was really funny, I was talking to the bank worker about my job and the man said I'm from Gibraltar. Banks could be the way forward for our recruitment."

Kian plays at right-back or in midfield.

He has been playing up an age group for Ipswich this season for the U16s and featured in a 7-1 win over West Ham.

Kian was part of the U14 Ipswich team which gained 1.5 million Youtube hits after being acclaimed as 'Barcelona-esque' after a stunning win over their Millwall counterparts a year ago.

'No rotation – I have to pick my best side'

THEY certainly won't ever rename Hawks boss Danny Chapman 'the tinkerman'.

The Harlow Town manager refuses to shake up his side ahead of Saturday's trip to inform Maldon & Tiptree, despite two defeats in three games.

Chapman says his side still need to win six of their last nine games to make sure of a play-off place, but he will keep faith with his misfiring front three of Alex Read, Junior Dadson and Jared Small.

He said: "I don't believe in rotation. The people you think are best to win the game, that is who you play."

Chapman is expecting an immediate response after Harlow suffered only their second home defeat this term against Brightlingsea Regent last Saturday (see page 90 for match report).

"We need to bounce back at Maldon. We have to pick ourselves up. It's going to go right to the end of the season and who knows who's going to get in the play-offs," Chapman said.

Rejuvenated

"Anyone in the top eight [can finish in the play-offs] and we have to make sure we get 20 points. There are nine games left and we need another six wins."

Maldon have lost just once in their last 15 games and are in red-hot form, moving up to 11th and have looked rejuvenated since Steve Ball took over in December.

Chapman said: "It's going to be a hard game. The last time we got beat was at Soham and we got a reaction against Aveley [a 4-1 win]. So we know a reaction is there."

After the weekend, Harlow head to Romford on Wednesday for their rearranged Ryman North match.

The title race appears very much over though, with AFC Sudbury now 16 points clear of Harlow.

Thurrock's win over play-off chasing Cray Wanderers on Tuesday evening means they are seven points ahead of Chapman's men in second spot.

"We have to forget Sudbury, we have to forget the title. I don't see anyone catching them," added Chapman. "It's now a case of the sides in the play-offs and one or two outside it, and who is going to be there come April?"
